To my AI sisters,

The gorgeous bouquet of flowers arrived today and they not only look fabulous but smell great! How kind and thoughtful of you all to remember me. They will be a blessing as I continue therapy. And it was Cindy Thompson who stirred me to get my fanny in gear when she asked, "When are you going to do something about those knees?" I only hope her shoulder is better or if she is having surgery, I can do something for her.

Again, your kindness is overwhelming - blessings to you all.
